1. School of Visual Arts | 纽约视觉艺术学院

<https://sva.edu/academics/graduate/mfa-interaction-design>

QS2020 年综合排名: /

QS2020 年艺术专业排名: 24

学位: MFA in Interaction Design

学制: 2 年

费用: 25930 美元/学期

语言: TOEFL 最低总分 79 , IELTS 最低总分 6.5

申请要求: <https://sva.edu/admissions/how-to-apply/graduate-application-requirements/interaction-design>

GRE: 不要求

申请日期: 截止到 1 月 15 日

作品集:

Interaction design portfolios are likely visual but need not be, as we look for a broad range of references as parallel influences to the field. Portfolios must include at least five projects. You might consider:

- Design work that demonstrates visual literacy, craft, process and the corresponding product/service
- Usability and social science research that emphasizes the concept and ultimate findings
- Strategy and writing projects that communicate audience, challenge and outcomes
- Coding projects that show samples, process and outcome
- Project management accomplishments that make clear the responsibilities, challenge and problem solved

Applicants are strongly encouraged to submit one case study. The case study should describe one of your projects from concept through completion, detailing: the project problem, your approach, and outcomes with supporting sketches and images. Emphasize your process and thinking using between one and six pages. The case study should be labeled "case study" and be included in your portfolio.

Applicants are encouraged to consult the MFA Interaction Design website for further guidelines on preparing a portfolio submission.

- The portfolio must be completed in SlideRoom only. Submit up to 40 items. Your portfolio should be a visual and narrative reflection of the work listed and described on your résumé and in your essay. Your projects and portfolio pieces should tell a story about you and what is important to you. Your application's narrative should make the case for why you are a good fit for the Design and Technology program. We are not looking for a particular type of work, nor do we require examples of digital works. It is up to you to decide which work is most representative of your thinking. Be honest—submit the work you think is your best. Any and all media are acceptable, whether in the commercial design, fine art, or non-design realms.

- The design portfolio is the cornerstone of the application. The portfolio should be a curated body of work that demonstrates the applicant's expertise in the conception and creation of sophisticated design and other relevant works (e.g., creative or critical writing, business plans, software, curriculum, research, grants, etc.).
- The portfolio must demonstrate versatility, criticality, rigor, point of view, willingness to discover, and accomplishment working with graphic, visual, interactive, spatial or experiential media. Projects can be professional, self-initiated and/or class assignments. Applicants are encouraged to include work that demonstrates process, research, experimentation and a spirit of inquiry. We encourage applicants from other fields but projects from outside of media design must demonstrate the applicant's ability to cross boundaries and think about issues in the realm of communication and media.
- The portfolio should be edited to highlight the applicant's best and most relevant work. Brief written descriptions of the projects should accompany each piece. Collaborative or commercial pieces should clearly state the applicant's contribution or role.
- All projects in the portfolio should be presented through SlideRoom. No physical portfolios will be accepted. Media Design Practices prefers all portfolios in the form of either a PDF or a website. The PDF or website should include stills, screen shots or photo documentation for all projects including print, interactive, motion or video. Where possible, dynamic media projects should be accompanied by links to working ➤ Graduate applicants to studio programs are required to submit 10–20 examples of visual work, with certain programs suggesting more specific ideas or portfolio requirements. Applicants to the MA programs in Global Arts and Cultures and Nature–Culture–Sustainability Studies are required to submit an example of critical and/or analytical writing. See below for all program-specific instructions.

Specific program instructions:

- Digital + Media | Your portfolio should contain 10 samples total, which can be a combination of images and videos. You may submit up to 5 videos, with a total run time of no more than five minutes for all videos combined. Please do not submit multi-page PDF files. Each sample should be accompanied by text identifying the medium and year, and a four-sentence description explaining the concepts that inform your work and is no more than 50 words. If collaborative projects are presented, you must clearly identify your individual contribution.

- The selection committee in Digital + Media is looking for evidence of the ability and preparedness to undertake graduate-level work. The department seeks applicants with a strong, research-based creative practice. Portfolios should be presented using the work that best represents your abilities, along with your desire to push boundaries and experiment. Applications will be judged primarily on conceptual integrity; there are no technical or computing requirements for entry into Digital + Media.

- A portfolio, along with written records of achievements and recommendations, serves to inform the faculty of the applicant's readiness for advanced graduate study. It provides a visual statement of the applicant's performance to date of a candidate's design skills, aesthetic development, and maturity.
- As part of the entrance requirements, applicants must demonstrate an understanding of design principles and visual computer skills using Adobe products. A portfolio of 10-15 examples must demonstrate a good sense of design, typography, and illustration in addition to the applicant's interests in and aptitudes for advanced study and, specifically, potential for success at RIT. Applicants are encouraged to submit only their best original work. Applicants should not submit work copied from film, television, photographs, magazine/book illustrations or other sources.

- Whether your background is in design or not, you're required to submit a web-based portfolio of work to be considered for graduate study at Carnegie Mellon's School of Design. Include samples of recent work that represent the strengths of your professional, creative, or academic experience. This portfolio might be filled with design projects, writing samples, or summaries of other original projects you have undertaken. You may use photography, video, writing, or interactive presentations to demonstrate your work.
- For long works – such as these, book designs, and software applications – please select excerpts that best represent your strengths. For each piece, include a brief description (one paragraph) on content and context, to help us get to know you better and understand your creative and problem solving approaches. If you include a collaborative work, make sure to identify your contributions.
- We will evaluate your portfolio from multiple viewpoints, including visual or verbal communication skills, critical and analytical thinking, craftsmanship, ease of navigation, and creativity.
- For candidates from non-design backgrounds applying to the MA program, we recognize that your portfolio will be different than a design portfolio. We are looking for supplemental information to your application that highlights your creative potential and interest in design. For example, your work might include written observations, blogs or critiques of existing work or things encountered in the world; artwork such as painting, ceramics, photography or video; musical or dramatic performances; academic or professional writing samples; and volunteer or professional contributions to projects.

- Your portfolio must be web-based, and you must provide a link to your portfolio in your application package. Be sure that your site functions correctly on multiple platforms. No PDFs or physical portfolios will be accepted.

- Submission of a creative portfolio is optional due to the diversity of applicant backgrounds. Portfolio materials need not be professional-quality work or even interactive media projects. Applicants are encouraged to submit work that is reflective of their interests and experiences. If you come from a creative background or enjoy making things, we encourage you to submit your work, as this will give us a better overall impression of you and your interests.
- If you wish to send a portfolio, please prepare the following: We ask that applicants limit the creative work to just one of the following formats:
- URL. Please check very carefully that all links are working properly. Please include the URL with your online application.
- Link to a shared Google Drive folder of your work
- Print. Laser copies, photograph prints, portfolio book. Do not exceed 11" x 14" dimensions.
- Writing Samples. Limit: No more than 20 pages.
- Description of your portfolio. If you are submitting a hardcopy portfolio, it is important that you include a printed version of instructions for viewing the portfolio, a list of contents with a short description of each piece, and your role in the production of the content. Portfolios that do not have a clear set of instructions will not be reviewed. If you submit a URL, you can either include the description/instructions in the email or in the website directly.
- A self-addressed, stamped envelope (if you want your creative materials returned).

- Do not send an original copy of your creative work. ITP cannot be held responsible for any materials lost or damaged while in our possession or in transit. Physically label the material carrying your work with your name (using the exact same name you have used in the application for admission: e.g., SMITH, John) and date of birth – month/day/year, e.g., 05/31/82). Please email or mail deliver your creative portfolio to: Midori Yasuda Assistant Director, ITP, Tisch School of the Arts New York University 370 Jay Street, 4th Floor, Brooklyn NY 11201.
