- Your portfolio is another aspect of your application that we find important, even if you have no design background. We look at your portfolio to get a feel for your qualities as a designer, but also to see if your skills match the profile of our design department.
- We value overall conceptual and graphical quality of the projects, and skills in both the physical and digital realm (e.g., sketching and prototyping, but also scripting, programming and electronics). Explicitly mention your personal contribution on the process and result.
Number of pages and projects
- We regularly come across portfolios that span over 50 pages. This taxes our ability to evaluate applications. Less is often more.
Form
- Pay attention to the graphical quality of your portfolio.
- Size
- The PDF or PowerPoint of your portfolio should have a manageable size of <5Mb.

➤ A portfolio is a collection of samples from projects, assignments or other work that have been carried out during previous education or previous professional activity. The submitted portfolio should include examples from three (3) projects or assignments that illustrate, in both text and images, the student's ability to design and plan a landscape or an environment. The balance between the amount of texts and images depends on the treated subject. The works must be correctly referenced and reflect the student's choice as well as his/her relation to the illustrated landscape. A jury assigned by SLU will consider the portfolio according to following aspects:

The relevance of the treated subject – has the student worked with questions relevant for landscape architecture?

➤ The presented projects should have a clear focus on landscape. The landscape can be represented in different scales and can include both urban and rural situations. Examples of landscapes are gardens, parks, cemeteries, squares, streets, residential areas, cities, recreation areas, municipalities, regions and the systems they may be a part of. Treated landscape should be put in a context and be explained how it relates to its surroundings. The projects should address issues and questions in landscape architecture that can be linked to the areas and places described.

The level of knowledge – has the student handled the subject in a relevant theoretical context?

➤ The projects should demonstrate your current ability to design, plan and/or manage landscapes. Both visualizations and the text should show how experienced you are in the processes that can be related to these activities. Reflection and theoretical connection (when possible) are valued.

欧洲景观设计（硕士）院校信息-2020 版本

The skill of the work – has the student presented an ability to handle the project or assignment in words as well as visually, and also shown the ability to independently and satisfactorily use digital tools?

➤ The projects in the portfolio must be presented through texts, graphics, plans, sections, and/or other visualizations that you have done. The visualizations and layout should be coherent and logic for each project. There should be a clear message and content.

➤ Great importance will be given to assessing your ability to use tools for visualization, also digital. It's required that your projects express your skills to explore, sketch, present and communicate your ideas through several different methods such as; pen/cray drawing, CAD, Photoshop and InDesign. It's an advantage if you can show abilities in model making, Sketch-Up and GIS as well. Feel free to use and explore material like photos of models etc. For all visualizations, please write in the portfolio which techniques and materials (i.e. computer program, cardboard, etc.) that you have worked with.

The portfolio format

➤ Portfolio must be submitted in pdf format (please check that your portfolio can be accessed on other computers than your own). The format should be in landscape A3 and comprise a maximum of 16 pages. We will print the submitted portfolio for our assessment.

➤ You must write your name and application number from universityadmissions.se on the portfolio but no more information about yourself is required (no CV).
